WHERE TO START

If you only remember one thing: open the flowhouse Space in Perplexity and describe what you want in plain English. That alone can do everything in this guide.

SECTION 01

The two ways to work on your site

You have two completely separate ways to change your website. You can use either one, anytime. Pick whichever feels comfortable — you can never “use the wrong one,” because both change the same site.

Way A — Just ask Perplexity (recommended for you)

Log into Perplexity Computer, open the flowhouse Space, and type what you want in plain English — like “change the homepage headline to ___” or “add a new class called Sculpt.” It makes the change for you. No buttons, no code.

Way B — Use your website’s built-in editor

Your site has a simple, form-based editor at flowhouserb.com/admin. Log in, click the section you want, type your changes, and hit Publish. The site updates itself in about a minute.

GOOD TO KNOW

Both ways edit the same website. Start with Way A (Perplexity) — it’s the easiest and can do the most.

SECTION 02

How your website actually works

You don't need to understand this deeply, but a one-minute mental model makes everything else click:

- Your words and photos are stored separately from the design. You can change any text without affecting how the site looks — the design stays beautiful and consistent automatically.
- When you change something, the site rebuilds and goes live on its own, usually within 1–2 minutes. You never “upload” anything or press a launch button.
- Your site is hosted on Netlify and its files live on GitHub. They run in the background — you rarely need to log into either.

THE FLOW, START TO FINISH

You make a change → it saves automatically → the site rebuilds → flowhouserb.com updates in ~1–2 minutes. Refresh the page to see it.

SECTION 03

Way A — Editing through Perplexity

This is the simplest way to do anything — including things the built-in editor can't, like adding a brand-new page or changing the design.

To start

- Go to Perplexity Computer and log in.
- Open the flowhouse Space (already set up with everything about your studio and site).
- Type what you want in everyday language and send it.

Examples you can copy

- "Change the homepage headline to Find your flow."
- "Update the opening date on every page to ____."
- "Add a class called Sculpt — 40 minutes, all levels — and write a warm description."
- "Swap the merch hero photo for the new one I'm attaching." (then attach the photo)
- "Add an FAQ about parking."
- "Show our full studio address on the Studio page now that we've announced it."

Tips for great results

- Be specific — say exactly what to change and to what.
- Attach photos right in the chat when adding or replacing an image.
- You can say "show me first" before it goes live, or "undo that."
- Not sure how to phrase it? Just describe the goal: "I want people to sign up for classes more easily."

YOUR SAFETY NET

If the /admin editor ever confuses you, just open Perplexity and ask. It can do everything the editor does, plus much more.

SECTION 04

Way B — Editing through the /admin editor

Your site has a friendly, form-based editor built in — no code, just fields you type into.

To log in

- Go to flowhouserb.com/admin
- Click Login with GitHub and sign in with the connected GitHub account.
- You'll see a clean dashboard with one item per page.

To make a change

- Click the page (e.g. Home page), then the section (e.g. Hero section).
- Edit the text fields, or click an image field to upload a new photo.
- Click Publish (top of the screen).
- Wait ~1–2 minutes, then refresh flowhouserb.com to see it live.

A few field notes

- Fields marked "HTML allowed for italics" let you slant one word: wrap it like `word`. If that's fiddly, just type normally or ask Perplexity.
- "Alt text" describes a photo for accessibility and Google — write a short, plain description.
- Lists (classes, FAQ, values) have an Add button and a drag handle to reorder.

CAN'T BREAK IT

You can't break anything permanently in the editor. If you get stuck, close the tab and ask Perplexity instead.

SECTION 05

Every page on your site

Here's every page, its web address, and what it's for. You can edit all of them in the /admin editor or via Perplexity.

Page	Address	What it's for
Home	flowhouserb.com	First impression — your hero photo, the modalities, FlowFormer feature, founder teaser, and Founding Circle sign-up.
Meet Sam (About)	/about.html	Your founder story, values, and a sign-up. The personal heart of the site.
Studio	/studio.html	The space and what's inside. Exact address is hidden until launch (shows "Coastal Highway · Rehoboth Beach").
Method (FlowFormer)	/flowformer.html	Explains the FlowFormer and positions flowhouse as its own movement method.
What to Expect	/what-to-expect.html	First-timer friendly — class flow, after-class community, "start here," and FAQ.
Schedule	/schedule.html	Live class booking (powered by Mariana Tek).
Memberships (teaser)	/memberships.html	Pre-launch teaser + sign-up. Prices stay hidden until you're ready.
Membership (buy)	/membership.html	Where people buy memberships, packs, and intro offers (Mariana Tek).
My Account	/account.html	Where members sign in to manage bookings and billing (Mariana Tek).
Merch	/merch.html	"flowhouse — the line." Striped-bag hero + a blurred "coming soon" teaser.
Teach	/teach.html	Instructor recruiting + an application form that emails you.
Franchising	/franchising.html	"Coming soon" — future-facing page with a register-interest form.
Legal pages	/privacy, /terms ...	Privacy, Terms, SMS Terms, Studio Policies, Marketing Consent.

SECTION 06

Your photos & images

Easiest way to change a photo

Open Perplexity, attach the new photo, and say which one to replace (e.g. "Replace the merch hero photo with this"). It optimizes it and puts it in the right place.

Through the editor (/admin)

Any field labeled "image" has an upload button. Click it, pick your photo, Publish.

Good-photo tips for a luxury feel

- Bright, natural light; warm tones (sand, walnut, cream) match the brand.
- Vertical photos for hero slots; wide photos for studio & feature sections.
- High resolution is fine — the site shrinks images automatically to stay fast.
- Always add a short description (alt text) of what's in the photo.

MATCH THE HERO LOOK

Your hero photo was professionally color-graded to feel like a campaign. Want another photo treated the same way? Send it to Perplexity and ask for "the same editorial grade as the hero."

SECTION 07

The email sign-up list (Founding Circle)

Every sign-up form on the site (Founding Circle, plus the franchise and instructor forms) collects Name, Email, and Phone, with a consent checkbox. Sign-ups are stored in Netlify and can be emailed to you.

Get sign-ups emailed to info@flowhouserb.com (one-time setup)

- Log into netlify.com with the connected account.
- Open the flowhouse site → Forms.
- You'll see forms named founding-circle, franchise-interest, and instructor-application.
- Go to Form notifications → Add notification → Email notification, enter info@flowhouserb.com, and save.

See or download all sign-ups anytime

Netlify → your site → Forms → click a form. You can view every submission and export them to a spreadsheet (CSV).

TURNING SIGN-UPS INTO MEMBERS

Later, you can import that spreadsheet of names/emails/phones into your Mariana Tek contacts so your Founding Circle becomes your first members. Perplexity can walk you through it.

SECTION 08

Mariana Tek — booking, memberships & accounts

Three pages plug directly into your Mariana Tek account: Schedule (book classes), Membership (buy memberships/packs/intro offers), and My Account (members manage their stuff).

Right now those pages show a gentle “Loading the live schedule...” message. They start working the moment Mariana Tek’s Web Integrations are turned on for your account.

To turn them on

- Log into your Mariana Tek admin.
- Find Web Integrations (often under Settings or Marketing — your onboarding rep can point you to it).
- Make sure your booking is published and the integration is enabled. Your account name is flowhouse (booking site: flowhouse.marianatek.com).
- That’s it — the Schedule, Membership, and Account pages fill in automatically. No website changes needed.

IF IT LOOKS OFF

Ask Perplexity: “The Mariana Tek schedule isn’t showing on flowhouserb.com — help me check it.” Your Mariana Tek rep can also confirm the integration is active.

SECTION 09

Going live with merch

Right now the Merch page is a beautiful “coming soon” teaser with blurred products — intentional, to build anticipation.

When you're ready to actually sell

- Easiest: tell Perplexity “I’m ready to launch merch” with your products, photos, and prices — it sets up the shop and connects your store links.
- The site already supports a Squarespace store: create a product, copy its link, and that product switches from “Coming Soon” to a real “Add to Cart” button.

No rush — the teaser looks great on its own until you’re ready.

SECTION 10

Going live with memberships & pricing

Your real membership prices are intentionally hidden until launch (they're saved safely in the site's notes). The Memberships page is a teaser that drives sign-ups.

When you want to publish pricing

- Easiest: tell Perplexity your final prices and say "publish the membership pricing."
- Or sell memberships directly through the Membership page once Mariana Tek is connected (Section 8).

SECTION 11

Legal pages

Your site includes professionally written Privacy Policy, Terms of Service, SMS Terms, Studio Policies (membership, cancellation, booking, liability, and photo/video release), and a Marketing Consent explainer. They're linked in the footer of every page.

BEFORE YOU OPEN

These are strong, complete templates — but have a lawyer give them a quick review before opening, to fit your final policies, prices, and any Delaware specifics. You can edit any wording via Perplexity or the editor anytime.

The photo/video release matters for you: it lets flowhouse use photos and videos of members in marketing, social media, ads, and the website. It's already written into your Studio Policies.

SECTION 12

Common things you'll want to do

Quick recipes for the things you'll do most often:

Change the opening date or a headline

Ask Perplexity, or /admin → the page → edit the field → Publish.

Add or edit a class

Add an FAQ

Update email, Instagram, or footer (site-wide)

Reveal the studio address at launch

Ask Perplexity: "Show our full studio address on the Studio page now."

Announce the opening or a new offer

Ask Perplexity to add an announcement section or update the bar at the bottom of every page.

See who signed up

Netlify → your site → Forms → export to spreadsheet (Section 7).

SECTION 13

If something breaks or looks wrong

Don't panic — your site is very hard to truly break, and every change is reversible.

- A change didn't show up? Wait 2 minutes and refresh. Still nothing? Hold Shift and click reload (a "hard refresh").
- Something looks broken? Tell Perplexity exactly what you see: "On the Studio page, the photo is stretched / the text is overlapping."
- Made a change you regret? Ask Perplexity to "undo the last change" or "put back the previous version." Every version is saved.
- The /admin editor won't load or log in? Use Perplexity instead for now, and mention the login issue so it can help.

WHEN IN DOUBT

Open the flowhouse Space in Perplexity and describe the problem in plain words. That's always the answer.

SECTION 14

Logins & accounts checklist

Make sure you have access to these (ask Ethan to transfer or share ownership where needed):

- ☐ Perplexity Computer — to use the flowhouse Space (the easy editing path).
- ☐ GitHub account (eghabra27-cmd, or your own added as collaborator) — to log into /admin.
- ☐ Netlify — the host; where form sign-ups live and the site auto-deploys.
- ☐ Mariana Tek admin — booking, memberships, accounts.
- ☐ Domain (flowhouserb.com) and the info@flowhouserb.com inbox.
- ☐ Squarespace — only if/when you sell merch online.
- ☐ Instagram (@myflowhouse) — update the link in Site-wide settings if it changes.

TIP

Ask Ethan to add you as a collaborator/owner on GitHub, Netlify, and Mariana Tek so everything is in your name. Perplexity can guide you through any of these.

SECTION 15

Glossary

A few words you might see, in plain English:

Hero	The big headline + photo at the top of a page.
CMS / the editor (/admin)	The form-based dashboard where you type changes without code.
Publish	The button in the editor that makes your change go live.
Deploy / build	The automatic process that updates the live site after a change (~1–2 min).
Netlify	The company that hosts your website and stores form sign-ups.
GitHub	Secure storage for the site's files; also your login for the editor.
Mariana Tek	The booking/membership software your Schedule, Membership & Account pages connect to.
Founding Circle	Your pre-launch email/SMS list of future founding members.
FlowFormer	Your custom-branded reformer and the name of your method.
Alt text	A short written description of a photo (helps accessibility and Google).

One last thing

This site was built to feel editorial, warm, and unmistakably flowhouse — and to grow with you, all the way to franchising. You don't need anyone's permission or help to run it.

When you want to change something, you have two easy doors:
ask Perplexity in plain English, or use the `/admin` editor. Both are yours.

You've got this, Sam.
